

Organizers' Database Workshop – October 17, 2009
Rich Cowan – rich@oc-tech.org

Questions for Groups:

1. What are the first activities in which people customarily participate in your organization?
2. What are the first “non-passive” activities in which people participate in your group? For the purpose of this question, non-passive means that the person must be engaged (1 on 1) for at least a half hour, or engaged in a small group for at least one hour.
3. List the ongoing commitments people commonly make when they participate as an “active/ activist” member in your group. These could include “become a member”, “pledge money”, “take on a volunteer role” – be specific about the membership requirements or roles.
4. List the most common leadership roles within your organization and also specify how long it usually takes before a new person is allowed to assume that leadership role.